

Federal Claims Administration for Construction Contractors Webinar

By RIW on October 31, 2018

Doing business with the federal government is always a tricky endeavor, and it can be especially daunting in the context of construction claims. Understanding the contractual and regulatory framework is crucial to preserving claims and ultimately getting paid. To help navigate these waters, RIW construction and procurement attorney Kirk J. McCormick will present an interactive webinar for federal contractors and others involved in preparing and prosecuting claims on federal construction projects. This webinar will take place on Wednesday, December 12 at 12pm.
